When It Comes to Change, We Focus on What Works

At United Way of Yellowstone County, we are committed to supporting families so they can put food on the table, pay the bills – and help their children thrive. Programs like Best Beginnings and Montana 211 help give Yellowstone County community members the support they need to build a stronger foundation for the future. Financial stability and economic mobility means more than individuals having a job; it’s also about community-wide prosperity. That’s why we partner with private, public and non-profit sectors to provide job training and coaching, as well as financial coaching and more.

UWYC Attends DEII Conference

UWYC was able to attend and have an informational table at the first Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Impact (D.E.I.I) Leadership conference organized by the William B. Henry Experience in April.

Our staff members were able to attend four 70-minute programs each discussing different sectors of D.E.I.I. here in Yellowstone County. The event also included a panel of student athletes from Rocky Mountain College and Montana State University Billings who gave insight on how we can better our community to encourage students to stay in Billings once they have completed their schooling.

Diversity, equity and inclusion are vital to achieving the mission of UWYC, living our values, and advancing the common good. UWYC is committed to diversity, equity and inclusion within its own organization and the community. UWYC affirms the essence of all individuals including the realities, background, experiences, skills and perspectives that make each person who they are.

United Way of Yellowstone County is excited to continue the conversation with other non-profits in the area in the field of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion during our convening of nonprofit leaders on May 13th at 2:30pm. If you would like more information or to RSVP click here.

UWYC Launches Real Estate Roundup

Our first ever industry specific campaign, Real Estate Roundup, has officially launched. This campaign will run from May 1-June 30. We are excited to engage with the Real Estate industry in Yellowstone County and look forward to creating positive, lasting change with their help.
